Touch Mobile

Overview

Introduced in the early 2000s, TracFone is one of America's oldest prepaid wireless services. TracFone is a division of América Móvil, which is the third largest mobile network operator in the world. In addition to TracFone, América Móvil also owns and operates Net10, Straight Talk, SafeLink Wireless, Telcel America, Simple Mobile and Page Plus Cellular.

Pros: Phones are inexpensive, and there are no access fees.

Cons: Customer service is below par and data is extremely expensive. The phones are also very out of date.

The Prepaid Users Guide to Google Voice and Hangouts

There's a lot of confusion and misunderstanding around Google's Hangouts and Google Voice services. That's unfortunate because together Google Voice and Hangouts are incredibly powerful tools for saving money on calls and texts, managing your phone numbers contacts and

How to Tell Which Network (AT&T, T-Mobile, Sprint or Verizon) a TracFone, NET10 or Straight Talk Phone Uses

TracFone and its sister brands NET10 and Straight Talk, do not have their own networks. They're Mobile Virtual Network Operators (MVNOs) that buy wholesale minutes, texts and data from AT&T, T-Mobile, Verizon and over a dozen smaller regional networks. Straight Talk
